Preachers Rap Liquor Case Handling

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP) — Prosecutor Frank Wynne Jr. of Fordyce has received a letter from the Crossett Ministerial Association questioning his handling of alleged liquor law violations in Ashley County.
The letter said the ministers had noted that Wynne's deputy prosecutor, Ovid T. Switzer Sr. of Crossett, had said he would represent the defendants in a liquor law case scheduled for hearing in justice of the peace court Sept. 12.
The letter came in the aftermath of an Aug. 24 Alcoholic Beverage and Control Department raid on a private club in Ashley County, which is legally dry.
The operator of the Horseshoe Club was arrested and charged with six counts of violating liquor laws.
Three days later Switzer had said he would handle the defense. Wynne said he had checked with Switzer who said he was stepping down as defense attorney because he learned Wynne was prosecuting

Julian Bond to Speak to Democrat Group

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A spokesman for the Progressive Democrats of Arkansas said
Wednesday that Georgia legislator Julian Bond, a Negro, had agreed to speak at the PDA's convention planned for after the
Nov. 5 general election.
The spokesman, Jerry Matheny of Little Rock, said the group had contacted Bond and asked his help in reforming the method of selecting Arkansas delegates to the Democratic National Convention.
Matheny said the PDA would adopt a platform at its state convention. Bond led a drive to seat a liberal delegation from Georgia at the Convention in Chicago last week and succeeded in getting to cast half of Georgia's convention votes.
Matheny also said the group met with Rep. Marion H.
Crank, the Democratic nominee,
Wednesday to discuss issues.
He said the PDA representatives were disappointed with Crank in some areas "because it seems to us that he wants the people to come to the party, rather than for the party to go to the people."
Among the topics they discussed, Matheny said, were the method of selecting convention delegates, abolishing the unit rule, making a complete, public financial statement of party finances and a constitutional convention.
Matheny said some of Crank's answers were vague. He said he was in favor of making the public financial statement and that he said the state convention should be held before the national convention to select delegates.
Matheny declines to name any other members of the organization. He said the membership totaled about 50 persons and that support was "snow-balling."
He said "a Democrat leaving the party" had offered money to the organization, "but they want us to create havoc, which we don't want to do."
Matheny said the group
planned to circulate petitions and present them to the convention to call for the election of national convention delegates by the people.

hospital.
"When the doctors asked me about it, I hated to see it," Lancaster said. "But I know it had to be done to help someone else."
Mrs. Smith married David
S. Smith when she was 14-years-old. They lived most of their married life in Detroit and were divorced about one year ago. The couple has a 9-year-old son in Cooter, Mo., where Mrs. Smith was born.
Smith, 27, now a Detroit police officer, came here to be at the hospital when he heard of the accident. He returned home after she died.
He said his former wife often discussed heart transplants.
"She believed in it 100 percent," Smith said. "She thought it was the greatest thing anybody in the world could do."
"She made me promise that if I ever had anything to do with it, I'd give permission for them to take her heart," Smith said, the case.
The letter asked Wynne,
"Please advise us if you believe that a deputy prosecuting attorney appointed by you and paid a salary by the taxpayers of this county should be defending, and receiving a fee for so doing, persons charged with the crimes you and he are sworn to prosecute for the state of Arkansas."

Soviets Treated Coldly by Czechs, Welcome Any Friendly Gesture

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer
PRAGUE (AP) — Soviet GIs
from Siberia and the Ukraine look at Prague's night spots with envy as they continue their occupation of the Czechoslovak capital.
"We aren't allowed to drink," said a captain in dark weather-stained khaki when foreigners offered him a small bottle of whisky.
He also refused an invitation to dinner at one of Prague's excellent restaurants. "Not in this uniform," he said. "Unfortunately, we haven't any civilian clothes."
It was his way of being discreet. Soviet troops are under strict orders to do nothing that might lead to an incident with the submissive but still resentful population.
The Soviets are especially sensitive about their uniforms.
Czechs have told them so often:
"We'd be more than glad to welcome you as civilians, without weapons."
The Russians get such a cold shoulder from the Czechs that they welcome any normal civility.
In recent days there has been a more friendly response from some young Czechs, and some local girls have been seen fraternizing with the Soviet troops, undeterred by those whose heads were shaved by indignant patriots.
The chief contact points between Soviet soldiers and the people of Prague is the tank en-

Mrs. Lizzie R. Moore, wife of the late Mr. J. T. (Jake)
Moore of Hope and Hot Springs, Arkansas, died Tuesday, September 3, 1968 in Hot Springs. Mr.
and Mrs. Moore were long time residents of Hope.
Mr. Moore was a local contractor and builder and Mrs. Moore, at one time, was a teacher in the Hempstead County Public School system. She was also a cousin and guardian of Mrs. M. L.
Rutherford of Hope, Arkansas.
Funeral service for Mrs.
Moore will be held at the Union
Baptist Church, Hot Springs, on Saturday, September 7 at 12 noon.
Burial will be in Scott's Memorial

China Charges Russia Peps Provocations

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China charged today that Soviet troops stepped up "provocations" against the Chinese Embassy in Prague and threatened the safety of embassy personnel.
Radio Peking, monitored in Tokyo, said the Chinese Foreign Ministry delivered a note of protest against the "provocation" to the Soviet charge d'affaires campment in Vrchislens Park, between the main railway station and St. Wenceslas Square, the center of the city.

Bored with the lack of activity, the Soviet soldiers welcome any opportunity for a friendly chat or even a sharp political argument.
Life isn't too comfortable in the park, in the heat and the rain, but the soldiers seem resigned.
"Rain, snow, it makes no difference to us," one said.
"Our tanks are our homes."
Not many seemed interested in a military career. One plans to be an engineer when his term of service is up. Another wants to teach foreign languages;
though he seemed able to speak
only a few words of German and none of English.

NEW DISTRICT from Page One

trict since 1951 is now assigned to Northwest district.
Mr. Perkins comes to Southwest extension district from the Northeast district where he has served as district agent since 1956. He joined the Agricultural Extension Service in August of worked throughout the state with agents and farmers on agronomic problems. In 1954 he was named district agent for the Northwest extension district.
Before coming to Arkansas
Mr. Perkins was on the staff of the Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station and was superintendent of the station at Glade Springs, Virginia for some 17 years.
He was born in Richmond, Virginia and attended public school at Palmyra, Virginia. He took his Bachelor and Master of Science degrees in agronomy at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Virginia. His military career includes service in World War II and the Korean conflict and the active reserve from which he has retired with the rank of colonel.

Mrs. Alexander comes to Southwest extension district from the state office in Little Rock, Ark., where she has served as Extension home management specialist since April of 1967. She joined the Extension staff in March of 1942 as assistant home demonstration agent for White county. Later that year she was promoted to home demonstration agent and transferred to Stone county. In 1944
she moved to Cleburne county.
She has served as Ashley county extension home economist
since January of 1958.

She is a native of Nevada county and attended public school at Laneburg in that county. She received her Bachelor and Master of Science degrees from the University of Arkansas. Before coming with the Extension Service
she was employed by the Farm Security Administration as assistant home supervisor. She took two years away from Extension and taught home economics in Heber Springs schools from 1955-57.

In all counties in which she has worked she has been active in church work and community affairs. She is a member of the American and Arkansas Home Economics Associations. While on the county staff she received the distinguished service award from the National Association of Extension Home Economists for her outstanding contributions to improving family living.

VOICE FROM THE GHETTO

Dear Helen: I am a 14-year-old Puerto Rican girl. We live in Harlem. I wish we didn't. I love my Papa, but he doesn't seem to love us. Every time he hits the number or gets paid he comes home drunk and starts cussing at everyone. One time he threatened me with a knife, for some money, but I got it tables. Placecards for the members of the wedding party were decorated with tiny gold rings tied with satin ribbon and net. Mr. Thrash chose this time to present gifts to the groomsmen. Among the guests were Dr. and Mrs. Walter Yeldell, the bride's parents; Misses Carolyn and Debbie Yeldell, sisters of the bride, and Walter, Jr., brother of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Teddy Jones, Jr., of Alexandria, Virginia, sister and brother-in-law of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Pierce and Mrs. Abernathy of Hot Springs.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gill, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Allen, Miss Jeanne Pothoff and Tom Williams of Little Rock, Miss Sharon Evans of North Little Rock, Delbert Palmer of McGehee, Miss Janet Sims of Batesville and Miss Claudia Johnson of Searcy, Buddy Jordan and Dennis Ramsey of Hope. Entertaining the male attendants at lunch Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McWhat of Hot Springs, uncle and aunt of the prospective bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Pennix Thrash, Jr., and Mrs. Pennix Thrash, Sr. were hosts for a dinner party for out-of-town guests, relatives and friends of the groom before the wedding Saturday night.

SHOVER SPRINGS HD CLUB MEETS

A meeting of the Shover Springs 4-H Club was held at Fellowship Hall on August 20 at 7:30 p.m. The vice-president, William Dillard, called the meeting to order, and Paula Poindexter led the group in singing "America."

The 4-H Club pledge and the pledge of allegiance were led by Sheryl Bright and Peggy Reece. Sheryl also read the minutes and called the roll. The 15 present included 6 visitors, Mrs. E. O. Bright, Carol Dillard, Dennis Arrington, Linda Reece, and Mrs. Homer Poindexter and David.

Gary Arrington gave the devotion from the 8th chapter of Matthew. James Rowe showed pictures of his trip to Washington, D.C., Paula Poindexter reported on the county activities, and Sheryl Bright told about the University 4-H Week held at Fayetteville.

Recreation was led by Paula Poindexter, and cookies and punch were served the the Howard Reeces.

away from him.

My sister can't stand him. My Mama wants to put him out. But I don't want him to go because if he goes he won't have anywhere to live. I don't want to go against him because he's my Papa, a person I should look up to.

Right now he doesn't have a job. Sometimes he frightens me. He might be taking dope because he always has to borrow so much money and he acts strangely.

When he comes home drunk he lays on the bed begging for water. My sister or Mama don't give it to him and tell me not to. But I give him water. He's my Papa. I pray every night that God will make him someone someday. Can you help?—CONFUSED GIRL

Dear Girl: If you'll send me your name and address, honey, I'll see to it your prayers are heard down here on earth too. We may not transform your father—that takes prayers on his part—but I can put you in touch with an agency which will make life more livable for you and your family. Please write!—R. Dear Helen: I was going steady last year with the "girl of my dreams." She said she didn't want my ring—that going together and knowing how we felt about each other was enough.

Then I heard that she'd told another guy the same thing. After a little research I found I was sharing my "steady" with three other fellows.

Am I unhappy? Heck no! I calmed it quits and am having the time of my life, dating the girls who don't have hang-ups about keeping a guy out of circulation. We play the field.

If I'm not too late, enclosed is a dime and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for one of your S.O.S. (Stamp Out Steady-ing) buttons.—18 and HAVING FUN

Dear Helen: Friday night I stayed out past our town's curfew and a policeman took me in and called my parents. The worst part was I was necking with my boyfriend on a dead-end street and the car we were in was stolen and involved in a hit-and-run. I didn't know this, but I couldn't make my parents or the police believe that.

Since this wasn't the first time I had disobeyed the curfew and a few other things, my father ended up paying a fine of $250 for not watching me.

He was fit to be tied. He yelled at me and slapped my face when I told him to "Shut the Hell up!" When we got home, he drubbed my bottom resoundingly and long with a bedroom slipper. Helen, I never got a spanking before in my whole life.

My boyfriend and I are thinking of running away to another state to get married. That would fix my Father. He's got a lot of money and I can't see how $250 would hurt him.—NO NAME PLEASE

Dear N.N.P.: You'd fix yourself, but good, if you ran away with a thief. (Oor did you boyfriend just "borrow" the hot car from a friend?) As for fixing your father: He might say, "Good riddance." Seems to me his parental concern is governed by how much it costs him.

Too bad the judge didn't sentence you BOTH to compulsory family counseling for six months. You need it!—H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having had trouble, or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address: Helen Bottel in care of Hope Star, c/o Hope, Ark.

"I was able to trace my ancestry on my father's side back only to 1726. There I ran into Thomas Brooks, a carter. He chiefly transported manure."

But if there are thousands of Americans who are nonarmigerous—that is, not entitled to armorial bearings—Brooks said there are other thousands who are indeed fully armigerous but don't know it. He charges a fee of $50 to $150 or up to backtrack ancestors. It is estimated that of the 200

most common names in America, 183 are of British origin," he said. "Oddly, the commonest names, such as Brown, Smith, Robinson, Thompson, Edwards, or Johnson are the most difficult to trace."

Brooks said that most of the snobbery current a generation ago in the genealogical field has died out.

"Most people today have a genuine interest in the past. They are searching for roots. They want to check family legends, to find out who they sprang from and where their forebears came from. Of course, some do hope to find they are descended from royalty, and some are."

Others are afraid to pursue their origins for fear that instead of a king, duke or prime minister, they'll find a sheep thief dangling from a limb of their family tree.

Relievers Preserve Win for Tiant

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Luis Tiant's Cleveland bullpen buddies gave him a lift to the front door of the 20 Game Winners' Club. Baltimore's Dave McNally got there under his own power.

Four Cleveland relievers combined to preserve Tiant's 19th victory Wednesday night as the Indians subdued the California Angels 9-5 after blowing a seven-run lead.

McNally nailed his 19th triumph with a fourth inning home run as the Orioles trimmed the New York Yankees 6-3.

Carl Yastrzemski grabbed the American League batting lead with a four-hit spree in Boston's 16-2 romp over Minnesota; Willie Horton's tie-breaking single in the eighth inning sparked first place Detroit to a 4-2 victory over Oakland and the Chicago White Sox blanked Washington 3-0 in 14 innings.

In the National League, Cincinnati tripped St. Louis 8-3, Los Angeles downed Philadelphia 3-0 and San Francisco divided a doubleheader with Chicago, beating the Cubs 5-4 after a 6-6 first game loss.

Tiant, 19-9, stopped the Angels on one hit until the sixth, when Roger Repoz' two-run homer touched off a four-run rally that drove him from the mound. Sonny Siebert, Rob Gardner and Horacio Pina all came out of the bullpen before the inning was over and Vicente Romo got the last two outs after Pina filtered in the ninth, preserving Tiant's first victory since Aug. 10.

Joe Azcue drove in four Cleveland runs with a pair of singles and Vern Fuller collected three hits and scored three runs.

McNally, who has reeled off 11 straight victories since the All-Star break for a 19-8 mark, smacked his third homer of the season after the Yankees had closed the gap to 4-3 on consecutive homers by Bill Robinson and Andy Kosco in the top of the fourth.

Elrod Hendricks, who singled home one of three Baltimore runs in the second, doubled and scored an insurance marker in the sixth.

Yastrzemski boosted his batting average to .291 by swatting three singles and his 18th homer in the Red Sox' victory at Minnesota. Right-hander Cary Bell checked the Twins on six hits and broke a 2-2 tie with a sacrifice fly in the seventh before Boston sewed it up with six unearned runs in the eighth.

Losing pitcher Dean Chance delivered the Twins' runs with a bases-loaded single in the second, boosting his season RBI total from one to three.

Horton bounced a single off the glove of Oakland reliever Jack Aker in the eighth, snapping a 2-2 tie, and Aker forced across another run with a bases-loaded walk as the Tigers maintained their eight-game gulge over second place Baltimore.

Chicago's Tom McCraw broke scoreless deadlock with a squeeze bunt in the 14th and Luis Aparicio followed with a two-run single, enabling the White Sox to push two games ahead of the Senators in their battle for ninth place.

Fabled Pancho Showing Up Youngsters

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — The fabled fighting spirit of Pancho Gonzales is holding up in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships, but what about those 40-year-old legs?

"Muscles don't respond the way they used to," the fiery, old warrior from Los Angeles said today as he contemplated his quarter-final match with Tom Okker of The Netherlands. "A man my age can play two and perhaps three tough matches but then the legs start getting wobbly. I'm very tired."

Gonzales experienced his greatest hour in 19 years on the West Side's center court Wednesday when he upset second-seeded Tony Roche of Australia with brilliant, slashing tennis 6-5, 6-4, 6-2.

This made the seven-time king of the pros the sentimental favorite of the galleries but those adhering to the hard, realistic line are stringing with the tough little Australian stylist, Ken Rosewall.

Rosewall had a tough battle with talented Ron Holmberg of Highland Falls, N.Y., before winning 6-3, 6-3, 2-6, 6-6.

Rosewall meets the winner of the unfinished match between left-handed Nicola Pietrangeli of Yugoslavia, and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., halted by darkness with Pietrangeli leading 6-2, 2-6, 7-5, 8-8.

The other two quarter-finals, both today, test America's Davis Cup ace, both amateurs.

LT. Arthur Ashe plays Cliff Drysdale, the South African who upset favored Rod Laver.

His teammate, Clark Graebner of New York, faces Australian John Newcombe, winner of both the U.S. and Wimbledon titles in 1967.

Ashe, Graebner and Okker are the lone remaining amateurs stacked now against five pros all shooting for the $14,000 first prize. Okker, as a registered player, also has applied to go after the big purse, permissible under relaxed tennis rules.

Two British girls—the veteran Ann Haydon Jones now a pro, and hard-serving Virginia Wade—clash in one of the women's semifinals.

The other women's semifinals is scheduled Friday between top-seeded Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., winner over Maryna Godwin of South Africa 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, and Maria Bueno of Brazil, who upset U.S. Amateur champion Margaret Smith Court of Australia 7-5, 2-6, 6-3.

The women's final is scheduled Saturday, the men's final Sunday.

Gonzales' opponent today, Okker, is a 24-year-old Dutchman who has become the game's pro killer. His pro victims include Laver, Pietrangeli, Alex Olmedo and Roy Emerson.

Tuesday he won over Britain's Peter Curtis 6-6, 2-6, 6-3, 6-2. Of Gonzales, he said: "If I can carry him to four sets, I've got a chance." Pancho agreed.

Part-time pros—Larry Stallings (left) and Charley Johnson, both members of the St. Louis Cardinals of the NFL, perform military duties during the week and play for the Cards on weekends. They did it last year and are going through the same procedure again this season.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The opening of the high school football season Friday night means the beginning of 12 weeks of questionable, but always fearless, predictions.

Thankful that last year's records were lost in a tidal wave, we head toward new horizons.

VAN BUREN AT FORT SMITH NORTHIDE — Fort Smith Northside opened its perfect season last year with a 52-0 victory over Van Buren. The Grizzlies are the top-ranked team in The Associated Press poll and aren't apt to give up their lofty position without a fight. Northside 28, Van Buren 7.

ROGERS AT SPRINGDALE — Jim Irwin, who quarterbacked Springdale to a 10-1 season in 1967, returns along with wingback Junior Smith, who averaged almost 16 yards every time he touched the ball. Rogers was 8-2 last season is one of the favorites in Region 1AA. Springdale 13, Rogers 7.

LITTLE ROCK CATHOLIC AT HORACE MANN — George Loss, highly successful at Fort Smith St. Annes, has taken over at Catholic High. Mann plans to throw often from its pro-set. A big opener for both teams. Horace Mann 19, Little Rock Catholic 13.

CONWAY AT LITTLE ROCK MCCLELLAN — Quarterback Mike New makes the Conway offense go. Mike Mallam, formerly at Little Rock Catholic has taken over at McClellan. Conway 13, McClellan 6.

Rose Bats Redlegs Over Cards

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pete Rose is ruining his image. Determined to become the first $100,000 player who doesn't pitch or hit home runs for a living, Rose has broken out in an unaccustomed display of power.

The Cincinnati spark plug rapped his second home run in as many days and 10th of the season Wednesday night helping the Reds lead a six-game losing streak with an 8-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

In other National League action, Los Angeles shut out Philadelphia 3-0, and Chicago split a doubleheader with San Francisco, winning 7-6 before losing 5-4.

In the American League, Baltimore dropped New York 6-3, Boston pounded Minnesota 10-2, Chicago bested Washington 3-0 in 14 innings, Detroit edged Oakland 4-2 and Cleveland whipped California 9-4.

Rose led off the game with his home run and then reverted to his normal approach with two singles, raising his league leading batting average to .348.

The three hits gave him 181 for the season—19 shy of his goal of 200. He has 25 games to go and if he hits the target, it will be the third time in the last four years he has done it.

Rose's 200 target has been made more difficult this season by a broken thumb with cost him 13 games in July. Nevertheless, he leads Pittsburgh's Matty Alou by 11 points in the batting race and is one of only four batters in the major leagues hitting more than .300 in this year of the pitcher.

Johnny Bench had a two-run homer and Leo Cardenas and Lee May also drove in two runs apiece with key hits for the Reds.

Don Sutton pitched his first shutout of the season, throttling Philadelphia on three hits as the Dodgers defeated the Phillies.

Sutton struck out 12—a career high—and never was in real trouble, winning his seventh game.

The Dodgers bunched three singles for a run in the fourth and then added two insurance runs in the eighth and ninth with triples by Willie Davis and Bill Sudakis the key hits.

Don Kessinger and Billy Williams each rapped two-run homers helping Chicago past San Francisco in the first game of their doubleheader. For Kessinger, it was his first home run in three seasons. Williams' shot was his 24th of the year.

Ernie Banks tagged a three-run shot in the nightcap for the Cubs but the Giants rallied with three runs in the eighth—two on Willie Mays' single—and one in the ninth on singles by Jack Hatt and Bobby Bonds to gain the split.

PRO FOOTBALL ROUNDUP
By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The new Cincinnati Bengals, who did some growing in their last two exhibition games, will invade the jungle of regular season professional play for the first time Friday night.

Paul Brown's Bengals will kick off the regular American Football League season when they play the Chargers at San Diego. Kickoff for the game to be televised nationally by NBC is 8:30 p.m., EDT.

The game is one of three regular season games that will be played during a busy weekend schedule, which also will have two interleague exhibition games and one AFL and seven National Football League preseason games.

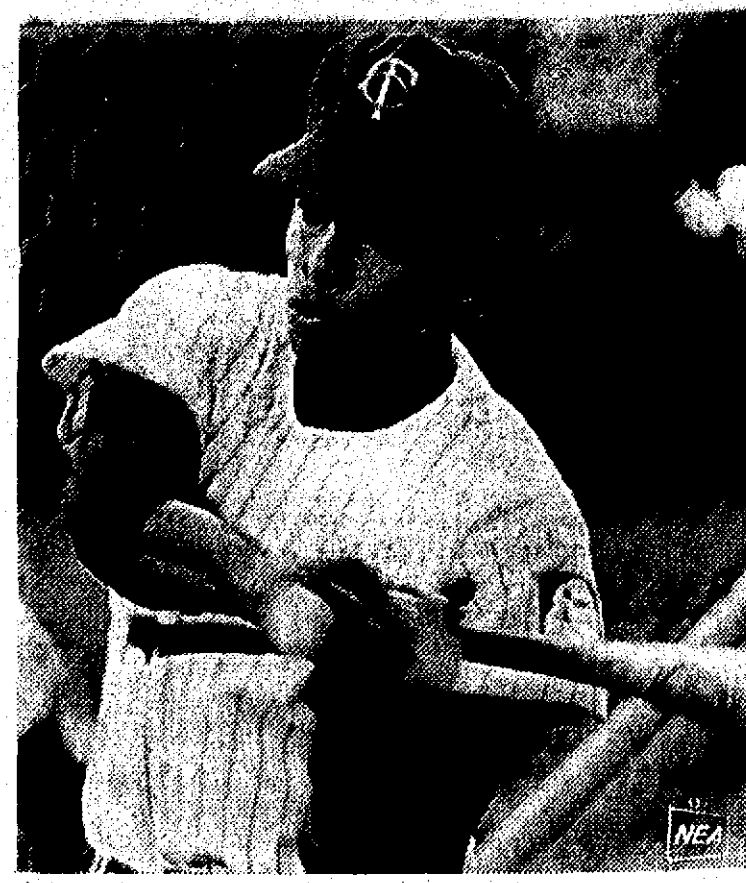

Rookie Dewey Warren and John Stoffa are expected to share the quarterbacking for the Bengals, who lost their first three exhibition games before beating the NFL Pittsburgh Steelers and the AFL New York Jets.

Cincinnati's main chore in their first play-for-keeps encounter will be to stop the passing of John Hadl and the catching of Lance Alworth.

The other two AFL regular season games have Boston at Buffalo Sunday and Kansas City at Houston Monday night. Both games will be televised nationally by NBC.

The two final interleague exhibitions—the AFL leads the series 11-10—pits NFL Atlanta against the AFL Dolphins at Miami and the Jets against NFL Detroit at Cleveland Saturday night.

Four Over Par Was Winner

JASPER, Alta. (AP) — A four-over-par 75 was good enough Tuesday to earn medalist honors for defending champion W.J. "Bud" Gilbert Jr. of Mount Vernon, Wash., at the annual Totem Pole Golf Tournament.

Gilbert, three-time winner of the tourney, finished the two-day qualifying round with a 148, one stroke better than L.F. Davidson of Port Alberni, B.C., who finished with a 73.

That neither will be in Dallas' starting line-up is a tip-off on the relative prospects of the Cowboys and seven other Eastern Conference clubs in the upcoming National Football League season.

Dallas' three Capital Division rivals and the four Century Division contenders have undergone who's a 10 personnel changes since 1967. But the Cowboys, who came within 13 seconds of winning their first NFL title last Dec. 31 at Green Bay, will open with a solid set of returning young veterans—all of whom have been through two summit clashes with the Packers.

One of the handful of newcomers who have earned a spot on the Dallas roster is Dennis Homan, the All-American pass-catcher from Alabama. The Cowboys' No. 1 draft pick has the sure hands and deft feints that made Berry a record-setting Baltimore standout for 13 seasons.

But Homan will begin his pro career in the shadow of two of the NFL's finest receivers—Lance Rentzel and Bullet Bob Hayes.

Berry, who joined Tom Landry's Dallas coaching staff after winding up his playing career last winter, has been sharing pass-catching secrets with Hayes.

"When Berry gives Hayes two or three moves," says Landry, "there's no way you can cover him with one man."

And it appears from here that there's no way to stop the Cowboys from nailing the Eastern championship for the third straight year.

Here's how the conference races should wind up:

Capital Division
1. Dallas
2. New York
3. Washington
4. Philadelphia

Century Division
1. Cleveland
2. St. Louis
3. Pittsburgh
4. New Orleans

Denver plays Oakland at Portland, Ore., in the AFL exhibition Saturday night.

In trades Wednesday, Detroit obtained receiver Billy Campbell from NFL St. Louis for a future draft choice, the New York Giants acquired quarterback Gary Lane from Cleveland for a draft choice and Washington sent center Heath Wingo to Atlanta for a draft pick.

Among players cut Wednesday were defensive end Larry Stephens, a nine-year veteran, by Dallas; flanker Lawrence Elkins, its No. 1 draft choice in 1965, by Houston, and punter Jon Kilgore, a four-year veteran, and running back Jim Stiger, by Los Angeles.

In a player-club dispute, veteran halfback Joe Aver walked out of the Miami camp as a free agent after the Dolphins refused to pay him $500 and reportedly offered him a spot on the taxi squad.

Other players called for an immediate clarification of the team's salary policies, while Coach George Wilson accused Auer of taking the play book with him, an action that could bring a $500 fine.

Says Dallas Will Win the East Title

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the two newcomers most likely to succeed with the Dallas Cowboys this fall could be the next Raymond Berry. The other is Raymond Berry.

That neither will be in Dallas' starting line-up is a tip-off on the relative prospects of the Cowboys and seven other Eastern Conference clubs in the upcoming National Football League season.

Dallas' three Capital Division rivals and the four Century Division contenders have undergone who's a 10 personnel changes since 1967. But the Cowboys, who came within 13 seconds of winning their first NFL title last Dec. 31 at Green Bay, will open with a solid set of returning young veterans—all of whom have been through two summit clashes with the Packers.

One of the handful of newcomers who have earned a spot on the Dallas roster is Dennis Homan, the All-American pass-catcher from Alabama. The Cowboys' No. 1 draft pick has the sure hands and deft feints that made Berry a record-setting Baltimore standout for 13 seasons.

But Homan will begin his pro career in the shadow of two of the NFL's finest receivers—Lance Rentzel and Bullet Bob Hayes.

Berry, who joined Tom Landry's Dallas coaching staff after winding up his playing career last winter, has been sharing pass-catching secrets with Hayes.

"When Berry gives Hayes two or three moves," says Landry, "there's no way you can cover him with one man."

And it appears from here that there's no way to stop the Cowboys from nailing the Eastern championship for the third straight year.

Here's how the conference races should wind up:

Capital Division
1. Dallas
2. New York
3. Washington
4. Philadelphia

Century Division
1. Cleveland
2. St. Louis
3. Pittsburgh
4. New Orleans

Denver plays Oakland at Portland, Ore., in the AFL exhibition Saturday night.

In trades Wednesday, Detroit obtained receiver Billy Campbell from NFL St. Louis for a future draft choice, the New York Giants acquired quarterback Gary Lane from Cleveland for a draft choice and Washington sent center Heath Wingo to Atlanta for a draft pick.

Among players cut Wednesday were defensive end Larry Stephens, a nine-year veteran, by Dallas; flanker Lawrence Elkins, its No. 1 draft choice in 1965, by Houston, and punter Jon Kilgore, a four-year veteran, and running back Jim Stiger, by Los Angeles.

In a player-club dispute, veteran halfback Joe Aver walked out of the Miami camp as a free agent after the Dolphins refused to pay him $500 and reportedly offered him a spot on the taxi squad.

Other players called for an immediate clarification of the team's salary policies, while Coach George Wilson accused Auer of taking the play book with him, an action that could bring a $500 fine.

Kickoff 7:30 for Opening Grid Game

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Football season is all but here, on the day before the day of game number one for the '68 goround of the Hope Bobcats.

All preparations that started three weeks ago come down to a 7:30 kickoff as the Bobcats take the field against the Ashdown Panthers of District 7-A at Hammons Stadium.

Tonight is the first pep rally of the season at 7:00 p.m., and the team and coaches will be present. The Bobcats will also dress out, and everyone is invited to come out, in case of bad weather the rally will be moved inside from Hammons Stadium.

Here's hoping some of this bad weather clears up, even though a wet night of rain would certainly be advantageous to the Bobcats

Arkansas Squares the Playoff Series

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A masterful performance by Phil Knuckles—both on the mound and at bat—squared the Texas League playoff series at 1-1 Wednesday night between Eastern Division champ Arkansas and Western Division El Paso. Arkansas coasted to any easy 3-0 victory over the Sun Kings behind Knuckles' two-hit pitching in which he retired 17 batters in a row from the second inning to the eighth.

The best of five series switches to El Paso tonight with Ken Tatum slated to start for the Sun Kings against either Andy Martin or Harry Parker. Knuckles, a hot prospect in the St. Louis Cardinal chain, fanned six El Paso batters in a game that lasted only an hour and 50 minutes.

He also doubled in the seventh inning to drive across in.

a run. Billy Murphy actually provided Knuckles all the margin he needed with a two-run homer in the first inning off loser Ken Turner.

No El Paso batter ever reached third base off Knuckles.

El Paso won the first game of the series 3-1 Tuesday night. El Paso 000 000 000—3 0 1 Arkansas 200 000 10x—3 5 0 Turner, Overton (6), Sennett (8), Boehlert (8) and Paepke; Knuckles and Roberto. W — Knuckles (14-6). L — Turner (2-2). Home Run — Arkansas, Murphy.

Housing Plan Loan to Searcy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., announced Tuesday approval of a $7,500 preliminary loan to be used to plan low rent public housing at Searcy.

Fulbright said the loan, approved by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, would permit the planning for the construction of 50 low-rent houses, 40 of which would be for the elderly.

Figures in 1970s Half of Drivers in U.S. to Be Leasing Their Cars

By A. F. MAHAN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Sometime within the 1970s half the people sitting behind automobile steering wheels in the United States won't own the car they're driving, William S. Pickett, sales vice president of American Motors Corp., says.

Pickett says the cars the drivers won't own will be those from company fleets, you-drive-it rentals or those leased, rather than bought, from dealers or others.

The reason, he said, is the snowballing sales of lease, rental and fleet cars.

Some others within the industry and even within Pickett's own company suggest his forecast of 50 per cent before 1980 is high, but such sales already account for something like 12 per cent and most industry executives anticipate growth.

Clyde Sutton, assistant sales manager of McCullough Leasing Inc., of Detroit, agrees with Pickett that possibly 50 per cent won't own the cars they're driving by 1980, and he pictures the leasing business as "growing by leaps and bounds."

"We think," Sutton said, "we honestly can show an individual it is cheaper to lease than to buy. Leases are adaptable to almost any given situation or condition. Leasing amounts to one-stop shopping and there's a minimum amount of pressure."

American Motors now has 11 dealers who lease, as well as sell cars. Chrysler reports 291 dealers in its leasing system with 70,000 vehicles under lease and the business growing at the rate of 10 per cent yearly. Ford reported 2,045 leasing dealers.

GM had no figures immediately available on the number of leasing dealers, but likely has more than the others, since it has many more dealers to begin with.

Advocates of leasing list these advantages: No capital investment through down payment, no worry about used car values at trade-in time, a possible tax write-off for business people, a new car every year or two and cheaper insurance and no repair bills in some deals.

The increase in car renting is reflected in gross sales of Hertz Corp. for example, which have risen from $138 million in 1961 to an estimated $375 million last year.

This year they will have about 115,000 vehicles on the road.

Avis Rent-A-Car also has shown record growth, with sales up from $25 million in 1961 to $10 million last year. This year it will put 85,000 vehicles on the road, compared to 10,000 seven years ago.

One man leasing his car said he paid $95 monthly on a two-year lease two-door hardtop, receiving full maintenance by the dealer and both personal liability and property damage insurance coverage.

Had he bought the same car comparably equipped without a downpayment and over a 36-month contract he said it would have cost him $105 a month, and by leasing, he added, "I didn't have to dip into saving for a downpayment, I'll have a new car every two years and no worries or extra added expenses."

Priests Have Own Birth Control Ideas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifty-one Roman Catholic priests, claiming a right to their own ideas on birth control, are asking the National Council of Catholic Bishops to step into the priests' dispute with Washington's Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle.

A leader of the dissident priests, the Washington Priests Association, said Wednesday night a petition is being sent to the Council of Bishops asking it to set up a special board to mediate the dispute which already has led to suspension of one priest.

The suspended priest is the Rev. T. Joseph O'Donoghue who moved out of his Northwest Washington rectory quarters Wednesday, meeting a deadline set by Cardinal O'Boyle.

The cardinal suspended Father O'Donoghue for citing in a sermon the words of some Catholic theologians who disagreed with Pope Paul VI's encyclical banning all forms of artificial birth control.

Cardinal O'Boyle told a news conference this week that the encyclical is the authoritative teaching of the church and must be followed by priests who deal

JET SETTER, but she'll travel ahead of first class; in fact, she'll be running the show. Turid Wideroe, 30, of Norway has been accepted by Scandinavian Airlines System as a trainee pilot for its big jets. Miss Wideroe reportedly is the first woman to be accepted for such training by a major airline.

L.R. Names Managers

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Little Rock City Manager Board named two city officials as acting city managers Tuesday, succeeding Clifford W. O'Key, who submitted his resignation Aug. 15.

Named as interim officials were Joseph C. Kemp, the city attorney, and Jack Murphy, the city finance director.

with birth control, even though the encyclical is not necessarily infallible.

The cardinal contended that "an attack on authority" is behind the priests' rebellion.

He has given the priests until Sept. 14 to retract their statements or face punishment. He has not said what punishments might be assessed. But under church law penalties can range from withdrawal of specific privileges, such as saying Mass, to suspension from a parish church.

Firm Vote for Alworth

One look was all Bill Austin, the positive coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers, needed to convince him. "Lance Alworth of the San Diego Chargers," he said, "is as good, or maybe better, than any receiver in the National Football League."

Reason you never see Denny McLain with glasses on goes beyond the fact he wears contact lenses. When the hotshot Detroit pitcher was first measured for contacts, he broke his regular horn rims. He never got them replaced so he'd be forced to adjust to the contact lenses.

Denny doesn't mind talking about his father-in-law, Lou Boudreau. "He has really been like a father to me. My own died when I was 12. Lou's given me a lot of good advice. Mostly on the golf course. I'm a 10-handicap player. But he's a terrible player. But he always beats me. He's always talking when I'm hitting. In fact, he beats me at everything."

Bill Enis, the Houston sports-caster of the Houston Oilers and one of the NBC grid-casting team this fall, is an older brother of Hunter Enis, a former AFL quarterback who's now the backed coach of the Denver Broncos.

Despite his home run heroics, Richie Allen gets booed incessantly in Philadelphia for his bad-boy antics. Latest is a summons for punching a bartender. Richie denies hitting the man. He says, "The booing makes me want to leave Philadelphia, mostly because of my family. My wife and brother and mother come to the games and listen to the name-calling. My wife gets insulted when she goes to a shopping center." ... So what else is new?

Grid pros having a tougher time signing established players to new contracts for '88 than they let on. Among the undotted is tight end Pete Lammons of the NY Jets.

Pro golfers are aware of the fact that not everybody's going to be with them in their break with the PGA. "We need public relations," confesses Frank Beard, a respected director of the splinter group of touring pros. "There's no way we're going to come out of this as good guys—at first. Until we show them what we do is going to be for the good of golf." ... The pros are even willing to forget there's $450,000 reposing in the PGA kitty, which accrued from their tournament entry fees and profits.

Mike Pyle of the Chicago Bears has been quietly taking treatment to cure a diabetes condition which pulled his weight down—and hasn't missed a lick of training camp. The Bears need him at center for a title shot.

The new Yogi Berra of baseball is Gates Brown, the phenomenal pinch hitter of the Tigers, who keeps everything around him cracking up with his straight-faced observations, also plays the straight man for others—like fellow outfielder Willie Horton introducing him to a bunch of high school kids and saying, "When Gates was in high school, he took English, mathematics and overcoats."

Between you'n me, Roger Maris isn't going to change his mood just because retirement lies ahead. When it was mentioned that, all in all, he can look back on his baseball career with satisfaction, "I'd rather look ahead."

Pro Charts

NFL EAST: Century Division—New Orleans

PROSPECTUS—The fastest moving of all the expansion clubs, in terms of posing a genuine title threat in their division. It's not inconceivable that Tom Fears, in only their second year of operation, will prime the Saints into contention. They won three in their debut, not bad for a new club, and could have won three more. There's been some smart dealing to pick up superlative talent such as split end Dave Parks. But they'll also need the breaks to climb over .500. PREDICTION—Third in Century Division.

OFFENSE

PASSING—In his seventh year in pro ball, Bill Kilmer finally has it all to himself. Was something of a surprise last year in beating out Gary Cuzzo (departed) for top job. Bill's got mobility and savvy to compensate for fair arm. Rating—B.

RECEIVING—Has to be considered topnotch now with addition of pair of regulars from 49ers, Parks and tight end Monty Stickles. No one tops Parks when he's healthy. The flanker, Dan Abramowicz, was a terrific rookie and they expect him to get even better. Stickles is noted mostly for sticking shoulder to tacklers. Rating—A.

RUNNING—It's young and it'll make mistakes, but Fears has to go with kids like Don McCall and Randy Schultz, plus surprise rookie Tony Baker, because old-timer Jimmy Taylor has just been spinning his wheels since he became a Saint. And it's a cinch his future isn't ahead of him. Charlie Brown provides an outside threat, too. Rating—B.

LINE—Just fair, though it's essentially the same as the one which finished last season. Brightest area is the right side with young Del Williams a corner at guard and Jerry Jones settling down at tackle. Jerry Sturm, the other tackle, was an AFL castoff who has found the NFL suited to his stride. You can bet Saints will concentrate future drafting up front. Rating—C.

DEFENSE

LINE—As long as Doug Atkins continues his amazing rejuvenation (he's now 38 and in 16th season), Saints will give enemy backs fits. Some spy young stuff complements his charge. Dave Rowe, Mike Tilleman at the tackles, Brian Schweda at the other end. And there's fair depth with vets Earl Leggett, Lou Cordileone. Newcomer Willie Grittendon might come on later. Rating—B.

LINEBACKING—Probably deepest department on club, and now John Brewer, a solid regular with Cleveland, has been added. He'll have to beat out converted fullback Les Kelley on right side. Steve Stonebreaker, Ted Davis, both ex-Colts, compete for strong side job now that Jackie Burke, still another ex-Colt, is out with injury. Fred Whittingham has made little pretty much to himself. Rating—B+.

SECONDARY—Fears thinks he's helped himself most in the deep defense, particularly at the safeties, where Elbert Kimbrough was coaxed out of retirement and Ross Fichtner was signed as free agent (after hassle with Browns) Dave Whitsell, who made Pro Bowl, and John Douglas continue on corners. Rating—B.

KICKING—The same alignment of Tom McNeill with the punting unit, Charlie Durkee with the field goal squad, and the year of experience they picked up last year should fortify their confidence. Rating—B.

Take a look at the East hand only. You are playing in a team game with International Match Point scoring which is the form of duplicate that comes closest to requiring rubber bridge strategy.

You would have opened with one heart but, unfortunately, South has started proceedings by bidding four spades and you must decide what to do.

You can pass; you can bid five hearts; you can double or you can bid four no-trump. The double would be for business but your partner might decide to take it out with a singleton spade and some high cards. In that case you would get to hearts. The four no-trump bid would ask him to bid a minor suit. If he selected diamonds you would be delighted. If he bid clubs you would go to hearts.

You should decide against the four no-trump call. Your hand just isn't strong enough for this bid. You also will probably decide against the pass. Of course, if you look at all the cards you will see that a pass is best. Your partner has as close to a blank hand as he can hold and you will be in trouble if you take any positive action.

At the table, the first East player decided to double. He wasn't at all confident of his ability to make five hearts and he hoped to set the four spade contract. Needless to say he didn't succeed in cashing anything except his two red aces. In fact, if he hadn't been careful he might have lost one of them.

The second East decided to bid five hearts. North doubled when it got back to him and East could only make seven tricks.

Five spades doubled at four amounted to 690 points; down four at five hearts doubled was 700. A 10-point difference is not scored in IMPs so the teams came out even.

What do you do now?

A—This is a real tough one. A pass will yield a sure profit but we favor a try for game by a four diamond bid.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three diamonds, your partner jumps to four hearts over your two hearts. What do you do now?

Parkinson's Disease Cause Still Unknown

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—What are the cause and early symptoms of Parkinson's disease? What is the best treatment for it? Where can I get some information about this disease?

A—The cause of this disease, also known as paralysis agitans or shaking palsy, is unknown. In the early stage a slight tremor of the hands or head is present. As this gradually becomes more noticeable a progressive weakness and muscular rigidity develop. Later there is a fixed facial expression and a shuffling gait. Many drugs—anticonvulsants, muscle relaxers and tranquilizers—are given to relieve these symptoms but they will not cure the disease. The best results have been obtained by surgical destruction of a small area of the brain. For more detailed information, you may write to the Parkinson's Disease Foundation, 710 West 168th St., New York, N.Y. 10032.

Q—I am taking Artane for Parkinson's disease but it doesn't help me much. Would cryosurgery help?

A—in most victims the use of a subfreezing probe to destroy the brain center involved gives excellent results.

Q—My brother has had two operations on his head for Parkinson's disease. His speech is very poor and he is almost helpless. Is there any hope for him?

A—His best chance would

Sliced Thin by The Editor
Alex. H. Washburn
Government, But Not Citizens, May Advocate Laws

Washington headquarters of the Internal Revenue Service announced last month it is standing behind the ruling of its San Francisco district director revoking the tax-deductibility of contributions to the Sierra Club.

What triggered the IRS action was a series of advertisements placed in Eastern newspapers in 1966 by the Sierra Club attacking federal proposals to construct dams in the Grand Canyon.

The same Sierra Club also has been instrumental in promoting a West Coast national park to prevent the destruction of our redwood forests.

Such activities, says the IRS, tend to influence legislation - therefore contributions to the Sierra Club should lose their tax-free status.

Obviously this is a ruling aimed to destroy the right of private citizens to speak up in behalf of the conservation of natural resources - to retain our centuries-old redwood trees, to keep the Grand Canyon from being defiled by utilitarian dams.

It's obvious, I say, because any national conservation program requires (1) That the people be informed of the issue, and (2) That a central organization be formed around which they may rally for a showdown.

You can't form or maintain an organization without money - in the case of a national organization, a great deal of money. And where the objectives are a non-profit movement for the good of the nation the accepted rule is that member contributions shall be tax-deductible - just as contributions to churches and schools are tax-deductible.

I don't see how you can put a non-profit organization's program before the nation without publicity - television, radio, newspapers, or printed pamphlets. Such expenditures by the Sierra Club are right and reasonable. The club's membership tax exemption cost the government nothing because the people who received publicity expenditures, whether broadcasters, newspapers, or pamphlet printers, paid taxes on such income.

Therefore the attempt to revoke the Sierra Club's exempt status simply amounts to an arbitrary double tax - a tax on those who spend as well as those who receive.

This is another ominous sign of the direction in which so-called free America is traveling.

We are moving into an evil day when the bureaucrats can say: "All laws shall be of our choosing - you private citizens can say nothing, without penalty."

I know. I'm the guy who didn't like the way the Arkansas sales tax is being converted into a transaction tax and circulated two state-wide petitions for a popular vote in 1955 and 1957. I contended that this was an American's God-given right. The IRS said: "We aren't stopping you from circulating a petition - we're just saying your expenditures aren't deductible." Saying, that is, you can pay double for the right to oppose a law.

That fight cost me personally $18,000. The Sierra Club issue will run into millions. But these are worth-while sacrifices if they help to awaken America to the pit into which it is falling - and the revolt across the nation today against bureaucrats and tyranny shows that America is indeed awake and alarmed and alert.

NLR Driver Dies From Injuries

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) - Kenny Landrum, 25, of near England, died Wednesday of injuries he received Sunday in a one-car accident on Arkansas 31 inside the city limits of Coy (Lonoke County).

Officers said Landrum's car left the highway and traveled 150 feet before hitting a sign and culvert.

Arkansas GI Dies in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) - Army Pfc. Ronald E. Davis, son of Mrs. Margaret L. Climer of North Little Rock, Ark., died in Vietnam of nonhostile causes, the Defense Department said Wednesday.

Teachers Strike Over the Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Teachers striking over salary and other grievances have postponed the opening of the fall school term for thousands of pupils around the nation.

In Michigan, 67,700 youngsters continued their summer vacations as 12 districts remained closed. Teachers in another 35 districts agreed to work while contract talks continue.

The New York City public school system with 1.1-million students was threatened with a repeat of last fall's teachers' strike as the head of the teachers union said he would recommend a walkout Monday.

Last ditch negotiations between teachers and the school board continued in Philadelphia to avert a strike in the 276,000-pupil system which starts classes Friday.

A teacher boycott in East St. Louis, Ill., was in its second week with 23,600 pupils affected. Negotiations Wednesday were fruitless as the 900-teacher union sought higher pay and a formal working agreement.

In Madison, Ill., where some 35 of the town's 3,000 pupils picketed to get back in class, the school board went to court in an effort to return teachers to their jobs.

About 100 teachers submitted mass resignations which the school board refused to honor. The board sought a circuit court judgment to determine if he could hire replacements for teachers who refused to report.

There were 10,000 school children out of class in East Chicago, Ind., public schools with 500 teachers striking for higher pay, smaller classes and a guarantee of a textbook for every child.

The 500 teachers in the Clarksville-Montgomery County, Tenn., school system walked out Tuesday night to protest budget cuts. Registration for 14,000 pupils - many dependents of servicemen at the Ft. Campbell, Ky., Army base - was set for Friday.

Darien, Conn., teachers voted to stay away from classes again today to support demand for higher pay. Affected were about 5,200 pupils in the city's 10 public schools.

East Haven, Conn., schools with 6,000 pupils were hit by a strike with the dispute reportedly centering on inclusion of teachers' families in medical insurance.

Despite some tension, classes in all but one of Boston's 189 schools opened without incident. The exception was the Gibson school in the Dorchester section where a group of Negro parents said they would renew a sit-in to force the transfer of a newly appointed white principal and her replacement by a Negro principal of their own choice.

The board dismissed 19 teachers last spring and the teachers union says there will be a city-wide strike unless all are reinstated.

Very Few Who Display Coat of Arms in Den Have Right to Do So

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) - Does your neighbor proudly have an ornate framed copy of what he blithely calls his family coat of arms hanging in his den or playroom?

Well, alas, the odds are heavily against his having a right to display it as his own, says a British expert in such matters.

"As few as 10 per cent of the people who use coats of arms are historically entitled to them," said Brian Brooks of London, one of the 45-member Association of Genealogists and Record Agents formed to combat fraud in such matters.

"The whole thing has been wide open to chicanery in the past."

Killed in Train, Truck Collision

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
MARION, Ark. (AP) - A truck-train collision at a railroad crossing in Wynne Wednesday claimed the life of David Wayne Wheeler, 23, of Wynne.

Authorities said Wheeler's gravel truck collided with a St. Louis and San Francisco Railway freight train. The impact scattered wreckage over a 150-yard area and pushed the truck about 100 yards down the track. The train engineer was identified as Jim Slayden of Chaffee, Mo.

U.S. Might Open Door to Czechs

By ENDRE MARTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States may open the door to Czechs who would rather live here than under renewed Soviet domination, authoritative sources said today.

This was one of several responses to the continuing Soviet armored presence in Czechoslovakia discussed at a hush-hush session of the National Security Council Wednesday night. It was a joint pledge with NATO allies that no reductions would be made from the present troop levels in Europe.

It was understood that the council, made up of President Johnson and his top military, diplomatic and intelligence advisers, reached no decisions, but prepared recommendations for a Cabinet meeting today.

Should the United States issue a statement promising extrajudicial refugee status for Czech citizens, it would parallel action taken after the 1956 Hungarian uprising. More than 30,000 refugee cases were handled then.

For the time being, this appears to be a symbolic gesture. Few Czechs have asked U.S. consuls for asylum.

A State Department spokesman said Wednesday he had no exact figures available.

American consuls in Europe already have been instructed to handle Czech requests under the clause of the Immigration and Naturalization Act which authorizes the government to grant residence status to refugees of communism.

The Security Council meeting is understood to have discussed the whole range of problems, military and political, created by the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Officials were ordered not to discuss the meeting.

The administration is understood to be cool toward congressional suggestions to punish the Soviet aggression by curtailing diplomatic, trade and cultural contacts with Moscow.

In the nuclear age, it is explained, the two superpowers cannot afford to suik and ignore each other.

U.S. officials on the other hand firmly rejected the Soviet contention, repeated Wednesday in the Moscow government newspaper Izvestia, that the Yalta Conference of the big three created spheres of influence in Europe, in effect permitting the Soviets to handle Eastern Europe as if it were part of the Soviet Union.

Charges Follow Accident Here

Two accidents were reported by city police, one resulting in two charges being filed. At Main and Second cars driven by Mrs. A. K. Holloway and Willie Muldrew, both of Hope, collided with about $45 damage to the car Muldrew was driving.

Officers Arterbury and Shirley charged Muldrew with failure to have a driver's license and Howard Buffington, owner of the car, was charged with letting Muldrew drive it without a driver's license.

On the Diamond Cafe parking lot an auto driven by Glenda Dickerson backed into another owned by Burgess Garrett with minor damage resulting. Officer Arterbury said.

Street Demonstrations, Police Action Bring a Congressional Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) - The furor ignited by street demonstrations and police tactics at the Democratic convention has swirled into Congress and prompted an investigation by a presidential advisory panel.

The investigation, third started in two weeks, was announced Wednesday by Dr. Milton Eisenhower, chairman of a violence study task force named by President Johnson after the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark and Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley started probes earlier.

Eisenhower said his panel will also study July's gunbattle between police and black militants in Cleveland and, possibly, the rioting in a Miami Negro neighborhood during the Republican convention.

The Chicago demonstrations, police countermeasures and news reporting sparked a congressional floor debate Wednesday that pitted Ohio's two Democratic senators against each other.

The state's junior senator, Sen. Stephen M. Young, said, "The security arrangements for the Democratic convention turned out to be a disaster and a disgrace."

"Democracy was clubbed to death by Mayor Daley's police," he added.

But most congressmen sided with Ohio's Sen. Frank J. Lausche, who said he's sick and tired of reading that violent

Arkansas Woman Killed in Accident Gives Her Heart for Transplant

CLEVELAND (AP) - Mrs. Opal Lancaster, a farm woman and mother of 13, knew her daughter would have given her heart to save a life.

Only eight of the Lancaster children are still alive.

The fifth to die, Mrs. Barbara Smith, 25, of Walnut Ridge, Ark., donated her heart and both kidneys in transplants Wednesday at Cleveland Clinic.

Mrs. Smith was never able to tell doctors she wanted to donate the heart and kidneys. She died Wednesday from injuries suffered in a truck accident Monday.

But Mrs. Lancaster, tears streaming down her face, said: "I know if Barb had been conscious she would have done the same thing because we had talked about this before."

The mother went on: "She told me 'I would give anything I can to help somebody else because when I go they won't do me any good.'"

Mrs. Lancaster and her husband, Willie, 65, arrived in Cleveland Wednesday afternoon from their farm home near Lake Village, Ark., where Lancaster works on an 800-acre farm.

With the parents were three children, Mrs. Thelma Elliott of Blytheville, Ark., and two sons, Bobby Joe Lancaster, 24, and his brother, Leroy, 42, both of Lake Villages.

"If somebody could have done something to help Barb I know they would have done it," Mrs. Lancaster said. "Maybe she saved somebody from going through the grief we are going through now."

Mrs. Elliott, 21, arrived about seven hours before her parents

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., described the demonstrators as a "bunch of troublemakers." "The mob included some of the most dedicated Communists and conspirators in America," he added.

Chicago Democratic Rep. Roman C. Pucinski accused newsmen of doing "an outrageous, unfair job" of covering the demonstrations.

"I don't understand what makes the media so squeamish" about showing provocative actions by the crowd, said Rep. Wayne L. Hayes D-Ohio. "Let the American people know what kind of trash bums they are."

Mayor Daley asked the three major television networks for time to give his version of what he called a "one-sided portrayal" of the convention.

Metromedia, which operates a string of television stations in Washington, New York, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Kansas City, wasn't included in the request but offered the mayor an hour to present his position.

NBC offered Daley a guest spot on a special hour-long "Meet the Press" interview show. But the mayor said he wouldn't appear before the panel of newsmen.

CBS turned down Daley's request, citing a half hour inter-

Saying Rioting Could Happen in Any City

By REILMAN MORIN
AP Special Correspondent
CHICAGO (AP) - Richard M. Nixon said today the disorders in Chicago last week "could have occurred in any other city."

At an early morning news conference he was asked to elaborate on a statement he made about the violence during an hour-long telecast Wednesday night. He said that criticism of either the Chicago police or the demonstrators would not be helpful.

Nixon added, "What happened in Chicago was not the agony of Chicago. It was the agony of the Democratic party. It was the agony of America. It could have happened in any other city."

Nixon said the question was the proper balance between dissent and maintaining law and order.

He said that he has stated repeatedly, "that no cause justifies the use of violence."

He advocated a study of that question.

He said he was not advocating a federal police force but the development of "highly trained local forces."

He said the national study should touch on the question of "once the law is broken, what degree of force is proper? That is a difficult decision for the individual officer."

He said that during his campaign for the presidency he will discuss the question of the violence in Chicago and the need for a national study.

Nixon held the news conference just before carrying his campaign to San Francisco.

Nixon said Wednesday political figures should not make partisan comments on last week's violence while federal and local investigations of the disorder are in progress.

Democratic candidate Hubert H. Humphrey's campaign manager, meanwhile, predicted the presidential contest will be "a close struggle that will go to the wire."

But the campaign manager, Lawrence F. O'Brien, said in Washington the vice president is getting "a depth of support that few people would have envisioned two weeks ago."

Telephoned and telegraphed offers of support have been pouring in, O'Brien said. He said there is "a great deal of support for the vice president by people who have never before been active in politics."

Humphrey begins his presidential drive Monday with stops planned at Philadelphia, Denver and Los Angeles.

Crowds estimated at from 250,000 to 400,000 crowded streets along Nixon's two-mile motorcade through the Chicago Loop area Wednesday and tons of confetti rained down from

Antiwar Group Sets a Rally Nationwide

CHICAGO (AP) - A student antiwar group has scheduled a week of demonstrations throughout the nation beginning Oct. 31.

The Student Mobilization Committee to end the War in Vietnam said Wednesday the dates were chosen to coincide with antiwar protests in Japan and Britain.

Plans drawn at a Chicago conference over the Labor Day weekend call for attempts to encourage American servicemen to join the demonstrations against the Vietnam war. The mobilization committee said students from about 60 colleges and 20 high schools across the country attended the weekend meetings.

Richard Hill, a coordinator for the committee, said the group's objective is the immediate withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam.

USE A CAULKING GUN TO CLOSE JOINTS AROUND YOUR HOME

By MR. FIX

Anyone finding a broken window pane or a hole in the wall would repair it quickly enough. You may have enough open joints and cracks in your home right now that equal the area of a missing pane of glass or a hole in the siding.

The joints around door and window frames alone might equal an opening even larger than the ones mentioned.

The best and easiest way to seal those joints is with caulking compound. Use a good quality compound, one that will not run because it is too liquidy and yet is pliable enough to fill joints no matter how irregular.

Caulking is a putty-like material. When dry it has a plastic consistency. This is why it can expand and contract without cracking.

Properly applied it will prevent moisture from creeping in, block drafts and hold down fuel bills. The easiest way to apply caulking compound is with a caulking gun. The gun has a barrel that is loaded with caulking. Pressure on the trigger pushes the caulking out through a tip or nozzle that allows it to flow in a bead of the proper size and shape.

While you can buy bulk caulking to load in a caulking gun, even this slight chore has been made easier. Caulking is available in cartridges. The cartridge provides its own barrel and nozzle all loaded with caulking and ready to go. With a cartridge you can use a simpler and cheaper gun. Instead of a full barrel the gun just provides a frame to hold the cartridge, plus a trigger and plunger mechanism.

When the cartridge is empty just throw it away. There is no cleaning up to do.

For smaller jobs you can also obtain caulking in tubes which you squeeze like toothpaste.

Caulking is generally available in white or grey. There also is a black caulking for sealing cracks on or around roofs.

Caulking can be done almost any time, except when the temperature drops below 40 degrees. Though you can caulk either before or after painting, it is preferable to do so before painting. This way you can paint over it and the caulking won't show.

Do not, however, attempt to paint over black caulking. This contains asphalt and it will bleed through the paint.

Keep a steady pressure on the trigger. At the same time, move the gun along at a slow and even pace. The even pressure will assure a neat job without gaps and without piling up of the caulking.

JAMES GARNER is the screen's new Philip Marlowe. Co-star Sharon Farrell plays the title role in "The Little Sister," based on one of Raymond Chandler's lesser-known detective thrillers.

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—One of the most famous and earliest of the private eyes is coming back to the screen. He's Philip Marlowe, the brain child (or eye child) of Raymond Chandler.

In the past, Robert Montgomery, Dick Powell and Humphrey Bogart played Marlowe in the three previous Chandler books which were made into movies. This time, it's James Garner in "The Little Sister."

I would have supposed that all the Chandler books had been filmed. But Sidney Beckerman knew better. He's a literary agent and so, when he decided to become a movie producer, he searched his educated memory for a worthy project. He remembered that there were two of the Philip Marlowe novels which had never sold.

"Being a literary agent," Beckerman says, "was a help. I knew that 'The Little Sister' and 'The Long Good-bye' were available, and I knew how to get them."

He and his coproducer, Gabriel Katzka, bought both, and plan to do "The Long Good-bye" next. Whether or not Garner plays the detective in that one, too, remains to be seen.

The books were written in the '40s, and had to be considerably modernized. In some ways, Marlowe is old-fashioned—he conquers with guile, not violence, and he doesn't hop into bed with every girl he meets.

That was one of the reasons Garner took the part. He's a conservative, sex-wise and violence-wise.

"I guess I'm a prude," Garner says, "but I won't do those sexy movies. As for violence, I think American directors don't know how to do it. If they want to show someone shooting someone with a shotgun, they cut to a bystander going 'Ooh, how horrible.'"

"In Italy, Sergio Leone would do the same scene but you see the victim blowing apart. I think that's better—it shows how bad violence really is."

Paul Bogart is directing "The Little Sister." After a long, very distinguished career on television, this is his first movie. He's a burly, bearded man with a permanent twinkle; he looks like a young Santa Claus.

Bogart says he's turned down picture offers for years, but liked the honesty of this script. Besides, the kind of television he does—CBS Playhouse and its equivalent—is getting sparser every year.

"I have the time here," he says, "to pay attention to details. When Sharon (Sharon Farrell) first came on the set, her make-up was awful. She had palm fronds on her eyes—more eyelashes than I'd ever seen in one place before. On TV, I wouldn't have had the time to do anything about it. But here I did—I had her go back to make-up for an overhaul."

Garner and Sharon Farrell were doing a highly dramatic scene. Sharon was obviously nervous—it was her first big moment—and Bogart and Garner were patient.

"I'm always relaxed," Garner said. "I'm so relaxed I go to sleep in the middle of a nap."

Sharon was recommended to him by Joan Hackett, the co-star of his last movie, "Support Your Local Sheriff." Joan and Sharon are good friends. Sharon has done mostly television up to now, and is famous among girl-watchers for her bikini aspect. But here she's playing the title role, and dressing with dedicated demureness.

"This is more like I used to do in New York," she says. "Hollywood kept trying to glamorize me."

It's easy to see why.

LOOK ALIKES? Long hair and sideburns worn by Pierre Salinger, left, aside to the late President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, caused some comment on a similarity in hairstyle to that of Bob Keeshan, right, who portrays the "Captain Kangaroo" character on television.

Television and Learning Techniques Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The trouble with vacations and business trips is that they are likely to shake the viewer out of his normal television habits.

Missing a few summer variety hours, like "Music Hall" or "Show Time" is nothing to fret about, but it is something else when one has been away for perhaps several weeks from the daytime serials or particularly, "Peyton Place."

Constant Viewer, after a two months absence, was back in the ABC soap opera town Wednesday night. It was like straying into a land where everybody spoke a foreign language.

There was that earnest young clergyman, Tom Winters, announcing his decision to leave the church because he is "in love with a woman who is not my wife." Nobody told us who the other woman was.

Meanwhile, in Peyton Place hospital, his wife lay in bed with intravenous feeding tubes in her arm but every false eyelash in place, pleading for help in getting Tom back. Will Susan go back to the bottle if Tom persists in his plan?

In another hospital room there is poor Rodney Harrington — who last year was acquitted on a murder charge — lying on his stomach with his chin in a sling looking mournful while a famed neurosurgeon presses his spinal column and asks if he feels anything. He doesn't. What happened to Rodney? Will he ever walk again?

And so it went for 30 minutes. It will take at least two weeks of faithful viewing to catch up with all the new twists and turns in the story. It is easier and quicker with the daytime soaps. Those stories move at a slower pace and they usually explain as they go along.

NBC's summer "Music Hall" Wednesday night vividly illustrated the perils of inserting topical humor in programs taped far in advance of air time.

It was shot in June or early July. Now that it is fashionable for variety show hosts to toss few political darts in their opening monologue, Ed McMahon's script had a line about James Arness of "Gunsmoke" running for sheriff of Dodge City, and winning easily because his opponent was Richard Nixon.

Between the time the show's writer inserted the crack and the time of the broadcast, a lot of things occurred, including two political conventions. Today Nixon-Josier jokes are out of style and have lost their humor.

Over-all, however, the summer shows of this year-round variety series have the advantage of being fresh programs, a nice change from reruns.

Another in the same category is CBS' "Dom De Luise Show." Both are nearing the end of their runs, and both tend to let their numbers—musical interludes and comedy sketches—run far too long.

De Luise, a talented funny man, has improved his style immensely over the months. He started out working so hard he even tired his home audience. Now he has slowed his pace and gained in comedy tempo.

U.S. Might Reappraise Missile Plans

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet tests of a long-range missile capable of packing "bushels of warheads" may force a sharp reappraisal of the U.S. missile counterpunch.

Expansion of the controversial Sentinel defensive system and the nation's offensive missile arsenal are being discussed in response to reports that the Soviets test-fired a missile hauling four warheads.

U.S. experts learned of the Soviet test early this week, even though it took place in late August, a week after similar tests at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, said the Pentagon—officially mum so far—had not informed him of the test. But military sources confirmed the Soviets apparently had fired a new-type ICBM.

Sources indicated they aren't certain whether the warheads were guided or unguided.

This would make a big difference, indicating whether the warheads could be accurate enough to knock out underground missile silos.

Jackson said a Soviet move into the multiple-warhead field could threaten U.S. missiles forming the bedrock of the American nuclear deterrent.

"This raises a quantitative question about our missile needs," he said, "it opens the door to a revision of all our fixed numbers."

The United States has peaked construction of the Air Force Minuteman, capable of intercontinental ranges, at 1,000 missiles.

But the Soviet Union is expected to have an equal number of launchers by the end of next year, and with several bombs atop them would field what Jackson called a "tremendous" number of warheads.

With that destructive force capable of eroding American nuclear strength, the issue is whether the United States should expand the 1,000-strong ICBM arsenal, Jackson said.

Pentagon officials estimate that if 400 U.S. land-based missiles survived a Soviet missile

FT. SILL, Okla. — Charles R. Stone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Stone, 120 N. Hazel, Hope, Ark., uses a PRC-6 radio while learning Army communication techniques.

A student at Henderson State College, Arkadelphia, Cadet Stone has completed Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps summer camp. The course ended July 23 at Ft. Sill, Okla.

During the encampment, he received six weeks of training in leadership, rifle marksmanship, physical conditioning and other military subjects.

Upon successful completion of summer camp and graduation from college, he is eligible to be commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army.

Cadet Stone is a member of Sigma Tau Gamma and Alpha Chi fraternities, and a 1965 graduate of Hope High School.

attack, the United States could still kill 30 per cent of the people in the Soviet Union.

The Soviet test is believed to have involved the SS9 missile, bigger and more accurate than the Soviet SS11, a weapon similar to the Minuteman.

Jackson said the SS9, which normally carries one big multi-megaton bomb, could be adapted to carry "bushels of warheads."

One military officer said a Soviet decision to go to multiple warheads would primarily affect the planned U.S. Sentinel antimissile system—which, according to present explanations, is aimed at the emerging Communist Chinese threat.

Each warhead flying toward a U.S. target would have to be taken under attack by a single interceptor, unless the antimissile could hit the attacking weapon before its cluster scattered.

Funds for starting the Sentinel system are contained in the 72-billion defense appropriations measure now before Congress. The funds survived numerous attempts to delete them.

Presentation by Caroline

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — Caroline Kennedy will present a duplicate of a sword worn by George Washington in the American Revolution to the aircraft carrier John F. Kennedy when the ship is commissioned Saturday.

The ship's commanding officer, Capt. Earl P. Yates, also announced Wednesday that the ship's 2,500-man crew will give a jewelry case and dresser set to Caroline.

The 10-year-old daughter of the late president christened the ship last year.

Audie Murphy Says He Is Broke

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Audie Murphy, the most decorated U.S. soldier in World War II, says he's broke and unable to pay off $13,260 on a promissory note.

Murphy, 44, said in court Wednesday that he paid part of the interest but none of the principal of a note signed Nov. 13, 1964, in favor of the First National Bank of Dallas, Tex. A judgment against him was entered Nov. 26, 1966.

Murphy told Superior Court Commissioner Human O. Danoff that he lost $260,000 in Algerian oil holdings because of the 1967 six-day war between Israel and Arab nations.

As an actor, Murphy said he receives television residuals from old films but that the state immediately attaches them to apply on overdue income tax payments.

Nomination of Fortas Still Bottled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen has affirmed his intention to vote for Abe Fortas, but stopped short of saying he will actively push for Senate approval of President Johnson's nominee to be chief justice.

"Are you going to take an active part in fighting for confirmation?" Dirksen was asked Wednesday.

"Well, I'm going to vote for him," he said.

Dirksen commented as Congress reconvened after a month-long recess and spent most of the first day grumbling over the electoral system, suggesting ways to change it but doing little substance about anything.

The Senate Judiciary Committee, where the Fortas nomination has been bottled up, had been scheduled to meet on the matter.

But Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., taking the opportunity to declare his suspected opposition to Fortas for the first time, put off the session indefinitely when a quorum failed to appear.

All of the other members opposed to Fortas' nomination to succeed Earl Warren stayed away as well as a few supporters.

Whether by accident or design, absence of the opposition seemed to indicate that its chief weapon—delaying tactics—gathered no rust during the August recess.

The aborted Judiciary meeting and lack of significant accomplishments by Congress on its first day back were not promising for a mid-October adjournment urged by leaders.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said that if Congress didn't get through the backlog—which includes the Fortas nomination, nuclear nonproliferation treaty, gun controls, major appropriations, and extension of the farm program—it probably will have to recess and come back after the November elections.

The first day's doings on Capitol Hill included a lot of criticism of the convention system of selecting national candidates, introduction of one bill to reform the system and promise of more to come.

The Senate debated an $18.5 billion money bill to finance the departments of Health, Education and Welfare, and Labor.

The House passed a bill to let employees contribute to trust funds for scholarships or child care centers for their employees, then talked about the Manpower Development and Training Act.

Dirksen's comments on the Fortas appointment followed speculation that the nomination of Richard M. Nixon as Republican presidential candidate would blunt some GOP support for Fortas in the Senate.

Nixon has said the nomination of a chief justice should be left to the next president. His position is expected to influence some Republican senators who are interested in party unity.

The opposition bloc has threatened a filibuster and Dirksen told newsmen "it wouldn't be easy" to shut one off.

Besides Eastland, only four members of the committee showed up.

Eastland said his opposition to Fortas "goes to his general philosophy," but he declined to elaborate.

Warren has retired from the court contingent upon Senate approval of a successor. The Judiciary committee has shelved Johnson's nomination of Homer Thornberry as an associate justice until Fortas is either confirmed or denied.

The bill to reform the electoral system was introduced by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis. It called for a federal commission to work out a new way of selecting presidential and vice presidential candidates by next Aug. 1.

Sen. George McGovern, an unsuccessful aspirant to the Democratic presidential nomination, said while campaigning for re-election in South Dakota that he also planned to offer such a bill.

House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan called for abolition of the electoral college, direct popular election of the president, and a re-examination of the way national convention delegates are selected.

Referring to the events last week in Chicago, Ford said it "was a pretty sad display of the way to act at a convention and the way to run one."

Big Hope Watermelon Goes With Miss Arkansas

Life In Arkansas

By TOMMY YATES
Associated Press Writer
Clarita C. Moran of the Philippines was in Stuttgart recently to visit and become personally acquainted with a long-time pen pal.

While she was there, however, she found a second person living in Stuttgart with whom she had corresponded.
The Stuttgart Daily Leader said Miss Moran, a nurse, was visiting Mrs. Iris Moore, her pen pal since 1958.
While watching television, she heard the name "Marion Crank" and she said "Marion Crank is another former Arkansas pen pal of hers."

It turned out, though, that Marion was not her pen pal. Instead, it was his daughter, Mary Ann, who had since married Neil Maynard of Stuttgart.
George Lester, who farms near Nettleton, claims he has grown a patch of the largest tomatoes that can be found in the area this season.
Lester has one big tomato that he says weighs about two and three-fourths pounds.
"I have a whole garden of these big ones," he said.
"People just won't believe how big they are until they come and look for themselves," he said.
He said he recently took a basket of them to a grocery store to sell them, but, he said, "The store wouldn't buy them. They were too big."

While on the subject, Larry Fatheree of the Wakefield community in Howard County recently displayed a king-size cantaloupe. It weighed 13 1/2 pounds. He said he and his father have grown several that weighed more than 10 pounds this summer.

Bob Evans, Executive Director of Arkansas Publicity and Parks Commission, presented Mall Dodson, Chief of the Atlantic City Publicity Bureau, with this huge watermelon, which was sent to Miss Arkansas, Helen Gennings. Helen will give the watermelon, grown in Hope, Arkansas, to the Children's Seashore Home in Atlantic City on Thursday.

May Clear Congestion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's major airlines say they expect federal controls aimed at clearing the cluttered skies of New York, Chicago and Washington to become law by Nov. 1.
This was the airlines' resigned reaction Wednesday to the Transportation Department's listing of what would be the first-ever federal controls on air traffic.
But the pilots of small planes vowed a fierce fight.
The regulations proposed by the Transportation Department would slash takeoffs and landings during peak hours at O'Hare Airport in Chicago, the world's busiest, by 82.
At New York's Kennedy Airport peak traffic periods would see a drop by 48 takeoffs and landings per hour. Small planes would be barred from 5 to 8 p.m. daily.
Stuart G. Tipton, president of the Air Transport Association, representing the nation's commercial airlines, didn't object to the proposals, although he said they should be considered only stopgap measures.
But the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association, which counts 145,000 private pilots as members, said: "The AOPA intends to forcefully oppose this proposed rule making with every means at our command, while we continue to press for the fair and proper solutions to the air traffic management problems."
The Federal Aviation Administration plans a public hearing on the proposed limits Sept. 25.
The government warned the airlines last month to propose voluntary measures for trimming air congestion.
Air traffic controllers attracted attention to the problem by strictly enforcing safety clearances between planes leading to delays of as long as five hours at busy East Coast airports.
The airlines came up with plans for a joint airline committee to act as a schedule coordinator and a scheme of sliding fare rates to encourage travel at slack periods.
The airlines meet with the Civil Aeronautics Board today to discuss the voluntary measures.
The Transportation Department proposals set an hourly limit of 80 takeoffs and landings at York's Kennedy, where as many as 128 have been recorded in a single hour.
Chicago's double-runway O'Hare has logged as many as 217, but would be restricted to 135.
At Washington National, just across the Potomac from the capital, the top limit would be 60 an hour. The same limit was proposed for LaGuardia and Newark in the New York area.
The limit at all airports would be broken down between various classes of flights, O'Hare's limits, for example, would permit 115 takeoffs and landings for airlines, 10 for air taxis and 10 for other planes.
The FAA set hourly limits a couple of years ago at Washington National, which the agency operates, but the airlines worked out a voluntary program acceptable to the agency.

Odds Against Bill Giving Equal Time

By ROBERT A. HUNT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The odds are against passage of a bill that would open the way for television debates between the Democratic and Republican presidential candidates, says a backer of the measure.

Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., a member of the House Commerce Committee, said Wednesday time is working against the bill. It would help if the heads of the two tickets gave it public support, he added.
The bill, already passed by the Senate, would exempt the television networks from federal laws requiring that all legally qualified candidates for president get equal radio and television time, aside from news reports and commercials.
But, said Van Deerlin, "the odds are about 2-to-0 against it now."
Van Deerlin said public support for the bill from Democratic nominee Hubert H. Humphrey and Republican Richard M. Nixon could help free the bill from the commerce committee. Their support would have to be combined with promises from the networks of separate time for third-party candidate George C. Wallace, Van Deerlin said.
"Unequivocal endorsements now by your candidates should give the proposal the bipartisan impetus it needs to assure its success in the House," Van Deerlin wired Humphrey and Nixon aides. He suggested to a reporter time is an important factor.
The divided House committee, which earlier put off action until after the political conventions, is scheduled to meet on the issue Wednesday.
Rep. John E. Moss of California, fifth-ranking Democrat on the committee, said his opposition to the plan remains firm. He already has said he would carry the fight to the House floor if necessary.
The three major radio-television networks have offered Humphrey and Nixon time for face-to-face debates but conditioned this on Congress lifting the equal time requirements.
Van Deerlin said he understood one major network, which he declined to identify, is ready to give Wallace 30 minutes free time for each hour given Nixon and Humphrey.
A congressional suspension of the equal time rules cleared the way for the 1960 televised debates between Nixon and John F. Kennedy.

Which Of Our 4700 Stores Get The Best Beef?

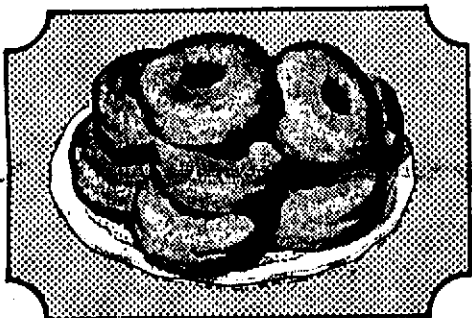

Believe it or not, there are some people who think the quality of our beef varies from store-to-store. It's not true!

Every one of our Meat Departments offers the same high-quality beef, the only quality we sell... "SUPER-RIGHT" Quality. Our quality specifications for "SUPER-RIGHT" Beef are so high that some beef graded "Choice" just isn't good enough to be labeled "SUPER-RIGHT." This one "high quality" policy for all stores applies to all the meats we sell.

It is true, that where customer demand calls for it, you will find thicker steaks, double lamb chops, etc., but they are all cut from the same quality meat that is available in every A&P Meat Department. After all, to satisfy customer demand is just plain good business.

One other thing we want you to know. No matter where you live, if you want that thick steak, double lamb chop or any cut you don't see in the case, just ask for it. WE CARE about, and want to satisfy, every customer... and we mean every customer.

Busy T-Men Can't Stand Stills

By TOM TIEDE
NEA Staff Correspondent

AMERICUS, Ga.—(NEA)—There were a half-dozen men crouched on the floor of the pine forest. It was hot and buggy. Small fruit flies swarmed in the steam, some landing on bare skin and drowning in human sweat.

"O.K.," said Cecil Kent, "any questions?"

The men had none. "I've got 11 a.m."

The group co-ordinated the time.

"Take places," Kent ordered. "We'll raid at 11:30 sharp."

Branches cracked under falling feet as the small band scurried to preselected stations in the forest. Cecil Kent, 42, a federal government tax agent, spit out a fruit fly and pointed down a twisty, narrow road.

"See," he whispered. "Hear that noise? Listen. Thump, thump, thump. That's it. That's the still. They're making whisky all right."

Kent smiled, wiped his neck with a sleeve and moved slowly toward the noise. This was a big one, he nodded. His small division of alcohol revenue had been working to crack this moonshine still for over a month.

The investigation had started, as most of them do, with rumors and educated guesses. Agent Kent had been informed that known moonshiners were purchasing large amounts of sugar, bran and yeast around the county.

The foodstuffs are the traditional ingredients of moonshine. And whenever they are purchased in quantity by individuals, revenue men begin inquiries.

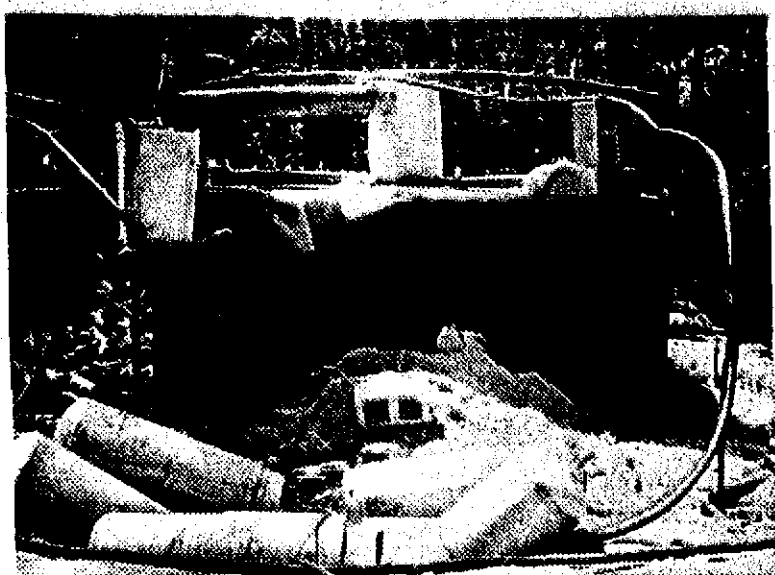

Within a short while, a local politician and large landowner called Kent to report that a still was operating on some of his unused property. He said one of his sharecroppers was "in cahoots" with the enterprise.

So the T-men went to work. With stealth and secrecy the still was located by eyeball surveillance. Sometimes small airplanes are used, but this time they weren't necessary. Agents on foot found the still erected a mile from the nearest highway and well into an uncultivated forest.

Agents were assigned a 24-hour watch. Shifts of camouflaged men studied the still's activities with binoculars. They recorded the coming and going of still hands and established the habits and capacities of the machinery.

Meanwhile, throughout the county, other agents traced down sources of supply, ferreted out distributors and drew up lengthy lists of accomplices.

Paperwork mounted. No

A GARBAGE DUMP? No, it's a still in the Georgia woods. Moonshiners worry little about quality control. The illegal booze—doctors rate it little more than diluted poison—that pours out of stills such as this cripples or kills thousands of customers yearly.

facts were overlooked. Auto licenses were recorded, secret photographs taken, principals were followed day and night. Conversations were recorded, transactions witnessed, figures checked and rechecked.

Evidence collection was time consuming, tedious but was a big one, he nodded. His small division of alcohol revenue had been working to crack this moonshine still for over a month.

Finally, after three weeks, the case was ripe.

Agents determined that the still was operated by two local men, both with long records in the business. One of them, 22, had been a whisky hand for eight years. The other, 36, had spent six years in jail on frequent charges of moonshine fraud.

Several others were implicated, but they did not work at the still site. Agents said all would be charged with conspiracy to commit a felony. The maximum charge: Five years imprisonment, and fine.

The still itself was catalogued as "large." It ran on a four-day cycle—three to prepare the mash, another to brew the spirits. The stake-out had determined that, on the average, it produced at least 1,500 gallons a week.

Federal tax for whisky is $10 a gallon. Thus, agents figured that the total revenue loss from the one still was $15,000 every seven days.

Cecil Kent stopped in the forest.

"Now?" somebody asked. "Wait," Kent cautioned.

The still, situated in a clearing, was a pasted-together hodgepodge of iron, sheet metal, wood and wire. It was embedded near a cow pasture; not very sanitary, but the cattle odor helped kill the smell of cooking brew.

Cattle manure, however, was only a fraction of the visible filth. The whisky water and glanced about in confusion. Cops darted here and there. The still was turned off, the water pump stopped, hoses were yanked from their couplings. Then axes began to crash against metal.

The workers looked at each other, then at agent Cecil Kent.

"Gawd dang," one of them said, "how'd you know we wuz here?"

ATLANTA, Ga.—(NEA)—"Hey, paw, the revenooers is comin'."

This cry, born in the backlands of early America and bred through the years by slapstick and cartoon, is still very much a part of the land.

The revenooers (alcohol and tobacco tax men) are still coming. In fact, more surely than ever. It's getting so a man can't hardly make a little cider any more without the law a-peekin' in from behind the shed.

Why? Why does the government care so much? Home-made brew is a way of life in some sections of the nation. It's more than tradition, it's heritage; a right young boys accept at the knee of their red-nosed fathers.

So why bother? Simple. Moonshine kills.

There are no specific statistics on such whisky deaths. Few people advertise it when their kin drop over from the effects of illegal spirits. And no conclusive medical studies have ever been undertaken.

There are some area estimates available, especially in the South. Federal agents in Atlanta guess two moonshiners die in the city every three days. And some doctors say the Georgia death toll is several thousand a year.

But if the morgue count has not been made, a clinical count has. Doctors say moonshine is nothing more than a somewhat diluted poison.

The poison is lead salt. Moonshine stills are patched together with solder and other risky pastes. And when the whisky is cooked, particles of lead chip off to combine with the finished product.

"It doesn't take much," says Dr. McLeod Patterson, a moonshine researcher from Columbus, Ga. "A bit of lead about the size of a pinhead is enough to poison a whole quart of whisky."

McLeod says the lead collects in the body over a period of months or years, then attacks the brain, the liver, or several other vital organs.

And if the lead doesn't kill, experts say, it may instead blind, maim, paralyze or sterilize. Almost every Georgia physician has a horror story of men and women patients turned into human vegetables.

One specific example: A 46-year-old male, admitted to the Atlanta Veterans Hospital, complained of abdominal pains. He had had no bowel movement for six days. He was "agitated, hyperactive, disoriented." He admitted a lifelong moonshine habit. He was suffering from delirium tremens, anemia and a swollen brain. Forty-eight hours later he convulsed and died.

Small wonder. The illegal whisky the man had consumed in his life was not only full of lead, but a dizzying array of other dangers.

Car batteries are often tossed into stills to help fermentation. Radiators, with antifreeze, are sometimes part of the process. Canned heat, gasoline, turpentine and pure alcohol are used to provide "kick."

One trick that boggles the mind is the "whitening step." Still workers sometimes toss in bottles of laundry bleach to get "a nice smooth color."

T-men say that habitual moonshiners are often merely walking dead. Their lips bleed, their skin shreds, sores pop open on their bodies and they spend their nights vomiting up parts of their insides.

There is no doubt, agents insist: Moonshine kills.

But though it does, millions of people in the nation continue to drink it. Some through habit, some through enjoyment, some through ignorance.

In the South, federal agents have been trying to reach some of these people through a massive program called "Operation Dryup." The effort has been to "scare people if necessary" to stop the lethal consumption.

In Georgia (moonshine capital of the world), this information and enforcement program has resembled nothing so much as a feverish propaganda war.

Millions of pamphlets have been distributed. Hundreds of radio stations are broadcasting one-minute moonshine warnings. Matchbook covers are printed with bottles alongside skulls and crossbones. Posters proclaim the word in public buses. Billboards do the same on the highways. Even milk cartons contain an admonishment against "white lightning."

Coupled with the promotion has been a heavy crackdown at the source. Over 150 agents are currently working in the state. And as one moonshiner has lamented, "These days the woods is full of two things: snakes and cops."

And if the effort is massive, it is also apparently effective. Atlanta officials say raw material sources are drying up, wholesalers are cutting back or quitting, and the public is steadily turning to legal byes.

But in 1965, when "dryup" started, there were 1,354 stills in the state delivering 254,824 gallons of moonshine a week. Today there are only 700 stills producing 100,000 gallons. The business has been cut in half.

"We have," says one agent, "put a big cork in the bottle."

Just how long the bottle will stay corked is anybody's guess. There is fear it might pop out again. Many of the biggest producers are now in prison and speculation is business might boom again as jail sentences expire.

Officials hope not. They know that the moonshine tradition is hard to keep down. They know that most counties in Georgia are "dry" and therefore openly encourage the establishment of illegal distilleries.

But still, officials hope the habit is shrinking.

"You know," says one T-man, "moonshine has always been just a joke with the public. Well, I've seen some of the drinkers; blind fathers, vomiting mothers, spasmodic kids. Take it from me, the joke's on them."

Gould Plans a Private School

GOULD, Ark. (AP)—The Gould Municipal Building will be converted into a private school to provide educational facilities for the children of Gould parents who don't want to send them to the totally desegregated public school here.

Hugh Wright, chairman of the temporary board of directors of the new Southeast Academy, said Wednesday that many parents did not want to send their children to schools in which the ratio of Negroes to whites was high.

"We're trying to keep all the white people from leaving Gould," Wright said.

The move for the private school came after the U.S. Supreme Court instructed a federal judge in Little Rock to order the Gould School District to abandon its freedom-of-choice plan of desegregation and to a unitary school system.

The order led to the closing of the all-Negro Fields school, with its students attending what had been the predominantly white school in the city.

The Gould City Council voted Tuesday to relinquish its lease of the municipal building, clearing the way for the academy to buy it.

SAYING RIOTING from Page One

buildings. Nixon told television panelists that U.S. choices in responding to Soviet actions in Czechoslovakia and eastern Europe are limited and world conflict should not be risked.

"I can say here that the U.S. can march and help them," he said. "But if we were to do that, it would mean risking a world conflict. I do not think any of us want that because it would mean the destruction of those countries, too."

Nixon's running mate, Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, also campaigning Wednesday, said the Nixon-Agnew stand on the law and order issue differs from those of both Humphrey and third party candidate George C. Wallace.

"George Wallace uses the words as a hatchet," Agnew said in Oshkosh, Wis. "We know that. We can sense that. Hubert Humphrey uses the words as a shield against critics of the sluggish administration of which he is a part. Richard Nixon uses the term as a pledge... as a commitment to America."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, kicks off his campaign Sunday with what is billed as a major address at San Antonio's HemisFair in Texas.

American Independent party candidate Wallace plans to resume campaigning Tuesday after time out in Miami for rest and speech writing.

Wants Hippies Off the Sidewalks

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The City Council passed 12-0 Wednesday an ordinance forbidding anyone to hinder the free access of people on sidewalks.

The ordinance, which Mayor Sam Yorty must sign to make law, is designed to keep hippies off sidewalks.

The state committee of New York's Liberal party called by resolution Wednesday for an immediate halt to the bombing of North Vietnam and then endorsed Humphrey for president.

California Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, who was a McCarthy backer has volunteered in a telegram to Humphrey to "undertake whatever task you may wish to assign me" in the presidential campaign.

Borden's Milk is quick-chilled right on the farm. It must be kept at a rigidly controlled low temperature on the way to our plant. It's just as cold when it reaches the store. And it's still that cold when it reaches you. We're fussy about that. That's why Borden's Milk always tastes fresh and sweet.
